"ISSUE" has been going significant prevalence in recent years

Dear honorable chief of the Education Bureau,

^{It has come to my attention} ^{trapped} in mental health issues. As I am a ^{concerned} resident who ^{extremely} care ^{about} with social issues, I realized that psychological disorders are being a widespread difficulties to adolescents especially students whose are facing immense pressure. According to a renowned study from 'Young Post', it shows that 75 percent of Hong Kong students often ^{feel} anxiety and depression. a quarter of ^{such} students may even have suicidal thoughts. Therefore, I am writing to express my perspective of this widespread phenomenon and some suggestions that might be useful to alleviate this grave issue.

This is a great introduction??!

First and foremost, I would like to start with the reasons of this trend. The main reasons why would majority of students are ^{try other places} trapped in mental difficulties is ^{the (only)} academic pressure. Recently, many teenagers face immense pressure to gain remarkable academic results. Students need a fabulous academic result to gain a ^{tertiary education} higher such as a bachelor degree, master degree, high-income job offer, thus, majority of talents prefer to spend more time on studying instead of ^{pursuing} develop their interests. It lead to students can hardly ^{consequently} disperse their attention on their hobby and over focus on stress. In that way, these individuals might be easier to ^{contribute to} self anxiety and isolated. It is believed that some of them might having ^{irrational} ironic behavior such as self-harm, bullying, obsession in virtual world or even ^{use} drugs, ^{but when in fact...} since students may misunderstand ^{but these} these actions could alleviate their stress. Furthermore, peer pressure is also a ^{major} essential reasons. There are a renowned study from The University of Cambridge shows that majority of adolescents usually spend 10 hours on social networking platform per a day. It is ^{undoubtedly} undoubt that there are individuals, like predator and cyberbully. In light of most of adolescents ^{evil?} who would like to play improper conduct.

fully developed gullible youths nefarious individuals have not yet (developed their personal growth), some may trust those villain ^{may be fooled} and gain attacks.
For ^{instance} instead, some teenagers may over relying on other's perspectives to change one self. This situation will hamper adolescents' moral values and critical thinking skills. Therefore, some of teens will, confusing on the correct and wrong acts, it even affect ^{their} psychological development.

I believe Considering these reasons, I would like to suggest two practical suggestions to address it.
It is believed that schools should raise students' awareness on understanding themselves. Schools should setup a mental growth lesson which aim to educate (psychological knowledge) such as the theme and the actions they should do while facing mental difficulties, especially the essential of finding mental support. Besides, school should also organise activities that can helps students alleviate stress such as ^{entertaining} entertaining videos, outdoor activities, board game competitions. These activities can makes students ^{redirect their attention} (disperse their attentions) on stress and let students rally together. It is believed that while having a better relationship with similar generation in the reality, it may help teenagers release pressure, since they could find a kindred spirit. Not only students can better release their mental pressure, it may also help them develop personal growth. ^{repetitive}

To sum up, by addressing these issues actively, we can help create a better and supportive environment for teenagers to enjoy their school life. Hope you may consider these suggestion and take action on supporting students and helps them develop a healthier mind-thinking in the future. [Thank you for your attention to this letter.]

Yours Sincerely,
Chris Wong
